FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

(June 23, 2011)

McKenna Video is Located in Puyallup, WA

(Puyallup, WA) McKenna Video Services today confirmed that they are located in Puyallup, WA, and not in the rural town of McKenna.

"We hope that any confusion regarding the location of our business does not dissuade anyone from calling on us for services," explains Chris McKenna, owner of McKenna Video & Photo.

The company says that they have had many people question their location over their seven years of operation. McKenna Video is named after their owner and founders of the company and not after any specific location that they operate in.

Chris McKenna adds "we have worked with customers as far away as New York and Florida, and those customers have had no problem working with us, regardless of where we are located. So we hope that the name 'McKenna,' does not keep a local customer from calling and talking with any of us because they believe we are located in a small, rural town."

McKenna Video Services is an award winning video studio offering services that include video production, home movie transfer to DVD, and CD and DVD duplication. In 2008, McKenna Video added professional photography to their offerings and markets those services under the name Chris McKenna Photography.
